NEWS NOTES FROM THE SOUND

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN

SEATTLE April 1

Winter still lingers upon the lap of spring—nights cold and frosty with occasional flurries of hail and snow

The Skagit river is rising and the various steamers on that route expect to be able to go up to the Portage

A man whose name we did not learn recently became disheartened and committed suicide on the route to the Skagit mines near Victoria.

A large new store is being constructed in Seattle for the barrel factory The first installment of goods will arrive by the Alexander from Portland this week.

During the past four months five of our churches have made gains in membership as follows: Baptist, 7, Presbyterian, 10, Congregational, 23; Protestant Methodist, 25; Episcopal, 80, total, 145

Jim Low, while cleaning his rifle at Good Hope, at the head of navigation on the Skagit, recently, shot himself in the foot inflicting a painful though not serious wound. Low is the man who recently found gold on Canyon creek.

The snow is settling rapidly in the Skagit country. However, this only tends to make the slides the more numerous In some of the gorges, it is stated, snow has slid down to the depth of 200 feet, from the mountain sides, carrying down trees and rocks with it.

A sample of wheat from the Swinomish flats was recently ground into flour at Yesler's mills in this city. The wheat it is stated is of an excellent quality, and fully equal to that produced in Oregon. Only eight or ten years ago the reclamation of Swinomish flats was commenced, and in 1875 the first shipment of a few tons of grain from there was made. Each year since then has shown a marked increase in the production, until last fall when ten thousand tons of grain, principally oats, were shipped from that section. Now that it has been demonstrated that the flats will produce wheat as well as oats, grain raising in that locality will become more profitable

THE QUESTION RESTATED.

PORTLAND, April 2, 1880

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In this controversy we seem to be drifting away from the main question, which is the exact amount of money Watkinds ought to refund to the state That is the question of interest to the taxpayers—and I have said that I would furnish the figures, but I will do so at my own leisure and convenience regardless of the cuttle fish tactics of Mr Watkinds. When he advertised for proposals to furnish prison supplies, two responsible firms in Salem offered to furnish them for nearly one half the sum which he pretends to have paid Meyer & Son. Copies of those offers have been preserved, and will be produced in evidence at the proper time. Allowing the Meyers a fair price for their goods Watkinds must have pocketed not less than ten thousand dollars It is in order for Mr Watkinds to explain this transaction to the taxpayers of the state, If the charge is not sufficiently specific, I will amend to suit him

A classic legend narrates the origin of the mule, but in this instance the demon must have encountered a herd of asses, for to the unmitigated malignity of the sire is added the proverbial stupidity of the dam A few instances will serve to illustrate.

When the investigating committee was in session, they decided not to touch Watkinds for the reason that the notorious rottenness of his administration of the penitentiary if made public would retard immigration and seriously injure the already fragrant reputation of the state. But he wrote scurrilous letters, and the members of the committee became incensed and exasperated. Then he paraded himself so publicly that the authorities were compelled to institute legal proceedings against him for the recovery of a part of his official pilferings, and finally when he had bulldozed Harding into giving him a jury trial, and he was likely to escape he utters this strident yawp and reinvites public attention.

I shall not dignify with a denial anything he may say of me, but I shall continue to regard him with that indifferent curiosity which I extend to any other hideous manifestations of diabolical caprice

W STANLEY

A DEMONSTRATION.

HERE IS THE MAN WHO CAN LIFT HIMSELF OVER A FENCE BY THE SEAT OF HIS TROWSERS

LEBANON, Linn county, March 30 1880

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

It is with deep felt gratitude that I thank you for the favor or rather condescension upon your part of giving a place for my article in the columns of your inestimable paper and if I were able to pay you for it I would subscribe at once, because it is worthy a place in any house throughout our whole country. But my financial circumstances will not admit it. Poverty has me in her clutches

In the note subjoined to my article of 27th March, I find in the last clause as follows "Now let us hear from the man who can lift himself over a fence by the seat of his trowsers." To this ever recurring stumbling block offered by so many persons as a conclusive argument to the impossibility of perpetual motion as understood in mechanics I have this to offer as an answer The lifting over the fence by the seat of the trowsers is the sum total required Now my opponents want to compel me to accept their figure and thereby become defeated as they have been I find that matter has the properties of figure and extension therefore I will extend the illustration to an other figure differing from theirs and bring about different results. My figure is as follows: I will erect a frame straddling the fence and to this frame will suspend overhead a simple pulley over this throw a cord one end of which I will fasten to the seat of my trowsers, then taking hold of the other end with my hands I draw myself up above the fence and then over and down and the job is done, and successfully too Question Are the advocates of "impossibility" fully satisfied they understand the following properties of matter, to-wit figure and extension That they know that they cannot be mistaken throughout from beginning to end and that the figure they take to demonstrate the impossibility of perpetual motion as understood in mechanics can in no wise or form or manner or difference of extension or any other way be changed? Neighbor, you and I are machines and will wear out The power manifested in us is applied, and is not in all particulars alike It will never wear out, therefore let us work for each other's good that the whole human family may be benefited, if possible. GEORGE FOGLE

To-day republican primaries will be held. Notice of the time and places will be given in our local columns.

SNOW STORM ON THE SIERRAS

Extraordinary Effort Required to Keep the R R Track Clear—Telegraph Line Demoralized

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN

TRUCKEE April [illegible]—A serious storm has been raging in the Sierras since 4 o'clock this morning. Snow plows are running constantly between Truckee and Summit and from Summit to Emigrant Gap. At Muller's mill four miles west of Truckee the snow is almost as high as the top of the snow plows. A snow plow train which just arrived from Summit came near sticking at one place on account of heavy snow drifts. All trains are running regularly but if the storm continues until night it will require superhuman exertions to keep the road from being blocked beyond Summit Two thousand feet of snow sheds were crushed during the last severe storm and this portion of the track lies fully exposed to the elements. Should a wreck occur a hundred men are held in readiness at this point to be sent forth with to clear it away A snow plow train just arrived from the east, plowing very heavy all the way to Bronco There is more snow on the mountains than at any previous time during the winter Every train requires from one to three extra engines Telegraph wires are badly demoralized only three out of nine wires are working

The new and magnificent steamer Columbia [illegible] Chester [illegible] San Francisco and [illegible] May [illegible] [illegible] equal to anything of the kind ever built in the United States

THE SMOKING ROOM

Is situated It is fitted up similar to the Pullman cars a party of four being able to sit together or at night capable of being changed into a large and comfortable bed At the end and in the centre of the upper saloon are three handsome cathedral stained glass sashes giving a very rich effect with the transmitted light on the hard wood finish and carmine upholstery The cuisine department has been made quite a feature the pantry being extra large and the kitchen scullery and pantry fitted up with all the modern improvements and conveniences belonging to a first class hotel The floors are covered with a handsome pattern of Mintons tiles Among some of the newest features in the ship are first the heating apparatuses consisting of a register in every room supplied with hot air driven in by an engine and controlled by the occupant of the room In hot weather it can be utilized for cold and in cold weather for hot air thus doing away with the disgusting smell of the steam heaters and leakage in the rooms etc The ladies room again is a new departure being finished with a very handsome wall paper and stained glass windows of quaint pattern But

THE GREATEST NOVELTY

Is the Edison electric light in every room and over all the tables, which is run by four of Edison's electric dynamos in the engine room, and arranged by Mr Henderson so that each line is under command of the engineer The separate rooms will be under control of the passengers on the inside and the steward on the outside Thus if a passenger wants to retire early he can do so and when lights are ordered out the steward shuts them off by a lock switch from the outside All of the rooms are fitted up with electric calls and the offices and the smoking room etc are also fitted up with telephones the smoking room being in connection with the steward's and the captain's with the chief engineer's purser's and steward's Other improvements consist of a tell tale electric to the bridge from the engine so that the captain when docking etc, can tell by simply pressing a button whether the engine is going ahead or back, and at what speed so as to prevent any accidents by mistaken telegraphs from the bridge to the engine room. The steering gear is an attachment from the freight hoister similar to the company's steamship Oregon but with self acting improvements. The elevators for discharging cargoes are new and also the running engines at the ports so that a truck loaded with freight runs from the lower hold out to the dock entirely by steam Her head lights and dock lights are run by a Weston electric machine and taken altogether she is the most complete piece of steam ship architecture ever gotten up in this country and reflects great credit upon the owners for placing such a ship on one of the best coast routes in the world where it is certain to be appreciated Her model is finer than that of the Oregon although similar in style Her rig will also be identically the same as the Oregon's all the additions being mainly for comfort and speed The Columbia was built by John Roach & Son of Chester Pa, under the superintendence of Mr J C Henderson to whose designs are due most of the improvements he having been superintendent of the Oregon as well She takes out a complete cargo of railroad supplies including locomotives cars etc, for the company's new railroad enterprise in Oregon

PAYMENT OF ROAD TAX

COAST FORK Lane Co March 8 1880

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I noticed in your issue of March 20th under the head of "Good Suggestions" an article attacking our road tax system It may be very desirable for city people to pay their tax in money but I think it would work a hardship to the farmer In the first place if any man wishes to pay his road tax in money he has a perfect right to do so under our present law It is very hard for the farmer to pay what the present law exacts from him, in money As it now stands his road work generally comes when he can spare the time and is willing to perform the labor If it were to be collected in money he would pay some body to collect and pay it out again and I opine that the amount of taxes now spent on the roads would do about one half the amount of work on the roads I know it is claimed by some that the men pass their time in idleness that is no fault of the law, so hands employed on all public works shirk more or less. But our road law is very strict in that particular, and gives the supervisor full control If the men pass their time in idleness or refuse to perform the duties assigned them he may cause them to pay the tax in money and under the present law the county court is made the auditor of all claims of supervisors of roads, and no supervisor is allowed pay, except for just what time he is engaged in performing the duties of his office less his road tax and he has no chance to steal without the risk of being caught. And another reason we should not amend Our people now understand the law tolerably well and each road district is supplied with a copy of the road law and it would be considerable expense to the state to print new laws The people in this part of the state as far as I have talked with them are utterly opposed to paying their road tax in money, and I have consulted with quite a number on the subject

SATURDAY MORNING APRIL 3 1880

THE NATURAL RESULT

The Grant boomsters who ruled their brethren so as to sweep down all opposition are now beginning to experience the result. In Pennsylvania and New York they stifled all free expression of opinion within the party and carried instructions for Grant by main pressure over all entreaty and remonstrance. Conventions were packed with delegates appointed by committees and the managers pushed with most resolute purpose to carry a programme which they knew or feared the masses of the party would not willingly endorse. Now comes the rebound. Party methods having been employed in a despotic way in states under the rule of the bosses of the Grant machine the friends of other candidates in states which they can control are now beginning to strike back with like weapons and the contest instead of being conducted on the high plane of the party's interest degenerates into a mere scramble of rival personal partisanships. In states which the opposition to Grant can control the Grant men are being put down by methods resembling those which they themselves invoked to override opponents in Pennsylvania and New York. Their remonstrance in Kansas, where no Grant man is permitted to get a place in the delegation chosen for Chicago, shows that they do not relish their own medicine and Iowa Nebraska Illinois Minnesota Ohio and other states are manifestly preparing to commend the same chalice to their protesting lips. Indiana Connecticut and Vermont had already chosen delegations distinctively in opposition to Grant and it is manifest that there is a solid combination against the despotism of Cameron and Conkling who opened the contest for the ex president by refusal to give the people time to deliberate on the choice of delegates and by a vote of instructions to muzzle the delegates, so that they should not have a right to vote upon their own convictions in the national convention nor represent the wishes of the constituencies behind them.

Inasmuch as the "boom" for Grant was opened by a trick through which the vote of the two greatest states was seized without allowing time or opportunity for discussion or remonstrance, it becomes altogether proper to use the advantage of the majority in other states to secure a counterpoise to this wrong. The Grant people are determinedly in earnest. It is their purpose to use every possible appliance known to political management to carry their point. Popular opposition does not concern them, so long as they are able to find means to overcome it by force or foil it by strategy. They are pursuing their object without caring for anybody's rights or remonstrances, and do not hesitate to use to the fullest extent every advantage they can make or obtain. Such a scheme, pursued by men actuated by such purposes, can never be met and defeated by mild methods. Aggressive effort can be foiled only by a vigor equal at least to its own.

The friends of Mr. Blaine are strong enough to render most effective service in the resistance to this unscrupulous effort to force Grant as a candidate upon the party regardless of its protests and its wishes. The friends of Mr Sherman can also do a great deal in this behalf. These are the two leaders around whom the opposition to the Grant effort can unite most effectively. All signs are that the friends of Blaine and the friends of Sherman propose to make from this time forward a vigorous fight, taking advantage of every circumstance, and using their strength in every locality to counteract the work of the political bosses and despots who forced instructions for Grant in Pennsylvania and New York against the manifest will of the republican masses. Oregon's strength in the national convention will be small. It is only six votes. But it is relatively as great in the convention as in the electoral college, and as experience has shown that the vote of Oregon in the electoral college may elect a president, so likewise it may be well to remember that the vote of Oregon in a convention may nominate one. In this state there is little or no sentiment in favor of Grant for president. Nineteen out of twenty republicans are against him. Therefore only such men as are known to be invincibly opposed to the Grant programme should be sent to Chicago. Instructions for any candidate may not be best, but instructions not to vote for Grant would be in order, and moreover delegates should be elected who will pledge themselves to go in person and to represent truly the wishes of the republicans of Oregon. We do not doubt that the preponderance of opinion is largely for Mr. Blaine. Every indication and test point to that conclusion. If therefore, Oregon be truly represented, he will have its vote. But as the nomination of any given candidate may always be regarded as open to doubt, it may become necessary to fix upon some other than Mr Blaine as a choice. In that case there are eminent men enough. The list embraces Washburne, Sherman, Garfield, Hayes, Evarts, Edmunds, and not a few others equally good though of less distinction, any one of whom would carry the united vote of the party and be almost sure of election—and this no one could safely predict of Grant. It is proper then for all who have a care to avert the danger of a disaster, to take heed in those states which are yet to elect delegates as the republicans of Kansas, Indiana and Connecticut have done, that men be chosen who certainly cannot be manipulated by the dextrous political managers who have staked the campaign and their own political fortune on the effort to force the nomination of Gen Grant, regardless of consequences to the party and the country.

THE ENGLISH ELECTIONS

Returns of the English elections are not full, but they seem to indicate defeat of the ministerial party and return to the commons of a majority favorable to the liberals. Should this prove true, Gladstone will again, in all probability, be called to the head of the government, and the party led by Beaconsfield which has controlled the government for the past seven years, will take the place of the opposition. In England government almost immediately responds to these changes of party ascendency; hence though the British government possesses certain monarchical forms it is in essential features the most thoroughly representative and republican government in the world.

The origin of this system of government by party is in many respects a singular and interesting page of history. It grew out of a very remarkable state of affairs existing nearly two centuries ago. After the expulsion of James II and the accession of William of Orange the government was embarrassed and distracted by the contentions of rival cliques and unscrupulous factions, which William tried to harmonize in vain. Strictly speaking there were no parties but factions and yet the power of the king was not despotic. Despotism was at an end but neither parliamentary nor party government had begun. The king being new to the country had not identified himself with either of the contending factions but strove to pursue a middle course. There was the privy council, a large body, but the members were often drawing in opposite directions and the king's experiment of reconciliation and harmony utterly failed. In this a remedy was adopted by the king. It was decided that a small number of persons, who formed the cabinet, should be selected from the party in majority in parliament under whose advice the king should carry on the government. It is a singular fact that this cabinet which keeps no records yet controls the business affairs of a vast empire and is the embodiment of what all the world has come to designate as parliamentary government, [illegible] its numbers [illegible] is always unknown to the English constitution. [illegible] a system [illegible] developed two great parties in England which have [illegible] by Lecky and other writers having [illegible] without essential modification taking alternately power and [illegible] power and struggling with each other in leading questions of policy and government for that majority which will give the victor the control [illegible] of full administration.

If the conservative or tory party shall now be turned out of power the effect is likely to be perceived in diminution of the influence of Great Britain in the affairs of Europe and Asia. The country will adopt a less meddlesome and aggressive foreign policy and the danger of a collision with Russia which has been impending for years is likely to be diminished. Of changes in home policy there has been much talk but no measures of legislation or of administration are likely to effect much change in conditions resulting from bad seasons, American competition and depression of trade. But in England as in America it appears to be considered a remedy for hard times to vote against the government. There must be some kind of remonstrance and this seems the handy one.

Should Justice Field be nominated for the presidency he would have small chance of carrying any Pacific state, if opposition to the presence of Chinese in these states signify anything. No man has gone so far as Field in rendering judicial decisions favorable to the Chinese thus encouraging their continued immigration. We are not saying that his decisions should have been different but only point out the fact that he has gone to the furtherest limit of the argument for reasons to sustain all the rights the Chinese have ever claimed. As against Mr Blaine he would surely fall very far short of a majority in every Pacific state.

Under a call of the standing committee, the republicans of Cumberland county Pennsylvania, met some days since and voted nearly unanimously to instruct the delegates from that district to Chicago to vote for Mr Blaine although these delegates voted in the state convention, in favor of "a unit vote for Grant." A similar movement is taking place in many parts of Pennsylvania, and it can not safely be disregarded.

After careful and extended inquiry in eleven of the upper Mississippi and lake states, the Chicago Times reaches the conclusion that the present outlook points to an increase of the yield of wheat over last year's crop of sixty per cent. Of course this is liable to great change by damage to the growing crop between now and harvest time.

A dispatch from New York says that 300 members of the Tammany general committee express the intention of coming to the Cincinnati convention, and will send forward a commissioner to secure quarters. The foresight of Tilden in attempting a corner on rooms is now apparent.

An item on the political contest in Great Britain, now in progress, says it is calculated that the expenses of the campaign will amount to $10,000,000. Money has been flowing from the business centers to the provinces in such sums as seriously to affect the market.

The English budget shows a deficiency of about $17,000,000 growing out of the pursuit of "peace with honor." The Zulu war cost $25,000,000. The liberals have been taking advantage of the argument which an expensive administration has furnished them.

Oregon wants lower rates of pilotage and towage at the mouth of the Columbia river, and better tugs, and must have them. By no means must this important matter be postponed beyond the next session of the legislature.

Readers of THE OREGONIAN are referred to the supplement of to-day for additional news and a great variety of miscellaneous matter.

Dear Sirs—Herewith you will find your testimonial properly signed. I think you might safely add that your Lead is the best thing out for sore eyes and rheumatism. Do not bother me on collection day for my account, as I have no money and shall not be able to get any in for some time.

MESSRS. MIXER, DOZEM & CO

Gentlemen—I have signed your paper as requested and would gladly say something even stronger about your Lead if desired. I am sadly bothered by architects and property owners stipulating for other brands, but as you will not supply anything but your owne goods and I am not able to get credit anywhere else, I am obliged to make "Privateer" answer by hook or by crook. I recommend the Lead for my own sake all I can. Respectfully yours C BROWN,

MESSRS MIXER DOZEM & CO

Dear Sirs—We are in receipt of your request to give a testimonial to your Lead. We are as you know, responsible men of good standing in our trade and we do not like to commit ourselves to such an endorsement as you desire. As however we are under obligations to you for favors thrown in our way we have concluded to waive our objections and return the document herewith duly signed. Very truly yours,

MESSRS MIXER DOZEM & Co

Gentlemen—I do not quite approve of the very sweeping nature of your Lead certificate but have put my name to it for old acquaintance sake. I am at present using another brand, but shall be gratified when you can offer me a really reliable substitute. Yours, truly

J BROWN

MESSRS MIXER DOZEM & CO

Dear Sir—I hasten to return your Lead testimonial, duly signed. I shall always remember with gratitude the obligations I am under to you and am only too happy to be of any service. I am obliged to use another brand of Lead for finishing our best work but there is no occasion for the public to know it. Outside of this no goods shall be bought on our road excepting yours so far as I can help it. My rule is to condemn everything which does not bear the M D & Co mark. Thanks for your kind remembrance of the baby.

Please do not confound the PIONEER WHITE LEAD with other brands of California White Lead. The Superiority of the "PIONEER" places it beyond comparison.

PIONEER White Lead

ANALYSIS:

San Francisco, Feb. 24, 1880.

MESSRS. WHITTIER, FULLER & CO:

Gentlemen---I have made a careful analysis of PIONEER WHITE LEAD, which I find to be PURE and entirely WITHOUT ADULTERATION. It has great BODY OF COVERING POWER when mixed with Oil, in which it differs from some other samples of Pure White Lead I have examined.

HENRY G. HANKS, Chemist.

San Francisco, March 5, 1880.

MESSRS WHITTIER, FULLER & CO.

Gentlemen-- We have made a careful analysis of PIONEER WHITE LEAD in Oil, and have found it entirely free of impurities and adulterations.

Yours, etc.,

FRANKENAU & REESE Chemists.

Guaranteed Superiority over any other White Lead made in the United States. We challenge comparison.

SEE

WHAT THE PAINTERS SAY.

We, the undersigned Painters, hereby certify that we have used the PIONEER WHITE LEAD and have found it SUPERIOR to any other brand in this market, in Purity, Color Body, Fineness and Covering Power.

We cordially recommend it to all desiring a first class article.

TO MY CUSTOMERS AND THE PUBLIC

WHEREAS CERTAIN UNPRINCIPLED PERSONS for the purpose of injuring my business and benefiting themselves are going about representing that I have moved my DAIRY, MILES out into the country and will not be able to serve my customers with milk twice a day during the summer I find it necessary to caution my customers and the public against these misrepresentations and to state that I have associated myself in the dairy business with Mr J W Kern on the Kelly farm one mile from the ferry landing in East Portland, and that by this arrangement my facilities are greatly increased for furnishing milk promptly and regularly twice a day in summer to all my present customers and any others that may wish me to supply them with good pure milk.

CITY.

THE LIGHT BATTERY WINS —A decision was rendered yesterday by the state supreme court in the case of Thos Mountain vs the county court of Multnomah county affirming the decision rendered several weeks ago by Judge Bellinger in the circuit court This decision overrules the action of the county court by Judge Rice in refusing to pay the necessary expenses of the Portland Light Battery, which was represented in the case by Mountain its captain and compels the county to pay all its charges provided the sum is not greater than $50 per month It also determines the rights of the militia throughout the state, and restores to the various infantry companies of this city whose monthly allowance was greatly reduced several months ago all the privileges which they formerly enjoyed at the cost of the county. Capt. Mountain may under the decision draw the full allowance which has been withheld for nearly eight months and now aggregates nearly $400 The winning plaintiff was represented by Mr Fred V Holman, in his capacity as judge advocate of the state militia, and the case was by him argued both before the circuit and supreme courts

ABOUT FIRE ENGINES.—The Albany Democrat says "From the Portland papers we learn that the firemen down there have a great deal of trouble in getting their engines to the fires on account of the muddy condition of the streets and we also see that great credit is given No 1's of that city for hiring a team at their own expense to assist them in getting to the scene of the last fire Now it may be rather officious in us to offer advice to the people of as large a village as Portland, but up here in Albany we have overcome the difficulty which the Portland boys are grappling with, and we will give our experience. When a fire alarm is sounded in the city, every dray hack, or team of any kind, starts for the engine houses on a full run, and the one which arrives first and assists in getting the engines and hose carts to the fire are paid a sum out of the city treasury probably almost as large as they would earn at their usual work all day By this means our engines always arrive at a fire in short order, if it occurs in the day time but if at night, we have to fall back on muscle like the Portland boys'

CENTENNIAL COMMEMORATION —Next Wednesday, April 7th, being the hundredth anniversary of the birth of William Ellery Channing, it is proposed by the Unitarian Society of this city to commemorate the event with appropriate exercises in the church. Channing's fame and influence have become world wide, and the principles he maintained have taken root in every civilized land His doctrine as to the worth and dignity of human nature and its perfectibility together with the prophetic stress he laid upon the moral forces as fundamental in nations in individuals and in the nature of God, entitle him to a distinguished name, one above party or sect. Among the Americans, as a theologian, he divides with Jonathan Edwards the honors of originality and exalted wisdom, and is classed by such an authority as Chevalier Bunsen, among the heroes or prophets of humanity It is proposed to celebrate this anniversary on an extensive basis A programme of exercises will be ready early in the week

BADLY BURNED.—Two stock herders, [illegible] Schletts and Owen Shepherd, sleeping in a cabin on Butte creek, Wasco county, awoke on Monday night of last week and found the cabin in flames. The fire was burning fiercely about the door, and exit in that direction was impossible Shepherd escaped through the window, but Schletts was caught by the sash, which fell on him, and he was badly burned about the legs before he was rescued by his companion He was brought to this city yesterday for medical treatment and taken to St. Vincent's hospital. It is probable that one leg will have to be amputated at the knee.

ASSISTANT TEACHER EMPLOYED —Mrs [illegible] who is employed at the Harrison street school in the eighth grade, class B, has had over 70 pupils under her immediate personal charge for some time As the lady could not possibly do justice to so large a class, the directors deemed it advisable to employ an assistant. Miss Alice White, daughter of the teacher mentioned above, was employed as an assistant several weeks since, and has discharged the duties in a very satisfactory manner. Miss White graduated last year from the high school There are now [illegible] and an assistant employed at the [illegible] street school.

ESTIMATES FILED —Yesterday the statement was filed of the amount of the work [illegible] for macadamizing First and South [illegible] streets, and otherwise improving the same. The work will be the most extensive piece of street work ever undertaken here and will embrace the following 7460 cubic yards of excavation; 1194 cubic yards embankment; 1006 feet of new sidewalk; 1432 feet of sidewalk to be relaid, 124 feet of gutter; 822 cubic yards of sand, and [illegible] cubic yards of macadam. This work will be let to the lowest bidder at the auditor and clerk's office at noon next Tuesday, and will cost about $10,500

THE "ESMOND."—Mr Brenner, who is to be lessee of the large and beautiful new hotel on the corner of Front and Morrison streets, has concluded to call the house the "Esmond"—certainly a very euphonious appellation. The "Esmond" will be formally opened about the 1st of May. A few days before the opening the hotel will be open to the inspection of the public. There will not be a more elegantly furnished and appointed hotel on the northwest coast than the 'Esmond'

TEMPERANCE MEETING.—The open temperance meeting to be held this evening at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, promises to be very instructive and profitable Mr J J Owen, editor of the San Jose Mercury, will address the meeting. Addresses will also be delivered by others. Miss Plummer will favor the audience with a reading Everybody is invited.

THE O S N COMPANY

A FEW W[illegible] AND [illegible] CORPORATION [illegible] PAST

In glancing over our columns this morning the reader will miss the advertisement of the Oregon Steam Navigation company which has greeted the eyes of the readers of [illegible] newspapers for many many years A few days ago the transfer of the property [illegible] company was made to the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company and notices of the [illegible] company's steamers appear under the new name The officers [illegible] in their places [illegible] and other changes [illegible] same.

The O S N Co has been an institution with which all the people of the Northwest were familiar. A history of its organization and progress will fill a large chapter in the history of this part of the country. It had a small beginning but under able management grew into one of the most powerful corporations [illegible] It had its struggles and bore its share [illegible] their country from a state of wildness to a higher civilization. [illegible] though they have grown wealthy [illegible] given the means of wealth and comfort to thousands [illegible] useless without means of transportation [illegible] their money in this state and [illegible] their share toward securing prosperity and progress to the country

No company in the [illegible] state of the same age with as much business has made more progress had less litigation been so free from accident to those employed It has been managed to make money for the stockholders but at the same time aimed to give its patrons the best possible accommodations and to its employes full remuneration for their labor When better boats or better facilities for travel or transportation in any respect were demanded by its business the money to make the improvements was disbursed without stint and the fine line of steamers are excelled [illegible] their appointments on but few rivers of the United States The present might be considered an appropriate time to say something of the men who organized and built up the famous business but their names are familiar to all and their work speaks for them

The new company has the wishes of the public for its success and will aim to keep the efficiency of their means of commerce and travel up to the old standard

PORTLAND

CITY HOMESTEAD.

THE LAND IN THIS ENTERPRISE LIES adjoining the city and is only from ten to fifteen minutes walk from the court house and a less distance than that from one of the best public schools in the city It is divided into

One Thousand and Twenty-Four Lots,

Fifty by one hundred feet in size with streets sixty feet wide Two hundred of these lots will be reserved for those who desire to improve and build this summer and fall These lots will be sold on the same liberal terms that are offered in the Homestead proper

Price.

All lots will be sold for $100 each payable in instalments of $5 per month or the small sum of 16⅔ cents per day No interest will be charged and a good and sufficient Bond for Deed will be given upon the payment of the first installment of $5, and a Warranty Deed upon receipt of last installment both without expense to purchaser

Appreciation of Values.

By reference to The Oregonian of Feb 15th it will be found that city property has advanced twenty five per cent during the past year As there has been no excitement the rise is wholly attributable to the increasing immigration and the growing confidence inspired by our numerous railroad enterprises and the development of our many natural resources that have hitherto slumbered for lack of energetic men to develop them

It is True,

That of all real estate investments the homestead plan is the best and safest as all who invest are interested in making the whole property more valuable To illustrate Suppose A builds a house on his lot and B owns a lot adjoining B gets the benefit of A's improvement while A is not injured thereby This philosophy will apply to the entire property

We have donated a lot to each of the principal churches for church purposes

In addition to the above two lots are set apart for public school purposes

Division.

The division of this property will take place when the lots are all sold or in any event, not later than the 28th February, 1881,

at the Mechanics Pavilion commencing at 10 o clock A M public notice of which will be given by publication in two principal journals in the State.

It will be made in the manner decided upon by a majority of the purchasers in the Homestead Parties [illegible] may appoint proxies to act for them if they desire to do so Parties who do not attend the division of the [illegible] in person [illegible] by the majority of those who do attend

It is suggested by the purchasers that division [illegible] be made by placing the number of each lot and [illegible] the name of each [illegible] property [illegible] the [illegible] is drawn from [illegible] and a [illegible] drawn [illegible] the person whose name is so drawn [illegible] payment [illegible]

All [illegible] installment must be paid at the banking house of Ladd & Tilton in the city of Portland

Persons from a Distance

Desiring a share may forward $5 00 to the General Manager and a bond will be immediately forwarded

Money can be forwarded by registered letter [illegible] or Wells Fargo & Co's Express at my risk

"OMNES PROSINT"—HEALTH FOR ALL.

The Original Oregon Botanical Remedies.

Prepared Only by Wm Pfunder, Operative Chemist.

No 7138
YOUNG BUT THRIVING

Why we the people of the Pacific Coast should any longer be pestered with worthless nostrums, made fifty years ago east of the Rocky Mountains, and that too, by persons who never even knew chemistry by its name proper, which has its wonderful workings. This question suggested itself years ago to Wm. Pfunder the only operative chemist in Oregon The result was that this gentleman applied himself to a great and tedious research of the different vegetations, growing in immense quantities, especially in Oregon, but shedding—until his discoveries—all their VIRTUES from year to year to mother earth His tedious researches, scientific applications, and proper combinations culminated in the production known to-day as the OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER Progressu labore et scientia extractum concentratum, nominis Pfunderii Oregoniense formatur

Experience makes the master Having had experience with very difficult medicines, chemicals, etc for over 25 years, having mastered them all through hard study both here, and in the East and in Europe we can confidently recommend our Botanical Remedies because we have extracted nay "wrenched" from the very heart-strings of hidden nature, all that is good and beneficial to suffering humanity and leaving the Empty Shells and Worthless Leaves to imitators, green and inexperienced

WM PFUNDER'S OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER will positively be found a valuable remedy for chronic constipation affected kidneys, dyspepsia, liver complaint rheumatism scrofula and all other diseases having their origin in impure blood

[illegible] Oregon January 7, 1880 A few bottles of your indeed valuable medicine, called PFUNDER'S OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER entirely cured [illegible] Rheumatism of [illegible] years standing and other acquaintances speak very highly about it, performing a cure in every instance. [illegible] made known to all sufferers hence I make the above statement. H. SCHWARTZ

[illegible] resident of Portland says For [illegible] years I suffered from liver complaint—tried everything Cured with 6 bottles PFUNDER'S OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER

[illegible] when occasion requires What? The OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER! Such are the words of one of our lady [illegible] what is meant

[illegible] Get a bottle of PFUNDER'S OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER Use it those pimples will leave your otherwise finely shaped forehead. [illegible] lady you also try a bottle of this really invigorating remedy and regain that natural bloom on your sweet face which no paint or powder can [illegible]

[illegible] remedied in a short time rapid gaining of flesh improved complexion and good health I sold my last bottle of Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier to Don [illegible] Angee [illegible] whose wife has been suffering from general debility for over one year although the Doctor tried his best to [illegible] remedy the patient felt better so much so that the doctor wants one dozen of this truly good medicine which please send in my care at [illegible] Extract received from Mr Boos Forest Grove Oregon

I Frederick Ruegg of Multnomah county State of Oregon certify herewith that Wm Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier has entirely cured me of a skin disease [illegible] oak Although I had applied to several physicians for relief none of these gents could do me any good, and I herewith recommend the Oregon Blood Purifier to all suffering with such skin diseases. Signed F RUEGG

Sea sickness—I used to dread it—a sea voyage but now since I take Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier I do not feel the least inconvenience. Use a dose or [illegible] going on board and same after leaving vessel

Look at him that sallow sole leather face—that dull red rimmed eye—that slouching walk—yes look at him well. He is a dyspeptic Now look at this [illegible] elastic step, bright eye healthy complexion—how is this? Well he uses Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier and nothing else.

Mountain fever of years standing cured without the use of Quinine in a short time Read and admire I have been suffering from mountain fever for years My physicians told me the only chance of my getting better would be a change of climate. Accidentally I came across a bottle of Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier used [illegible] and following directions by using a bottle of the S S S Fever and Ague Mixture in addition I am perfectly healthy now and thus capsized the theory of my physicians GEORGE GREEN Mail Carrier U S

Ladies in that delicate state—ever to be revered—but ever creating nausea, will find speedy relief by using Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier

Pfunder's S S S (safe, sure speedy) Fever and Ague Mixture Certificate I suffered some time with, what I was told, malarial fever, accompanied with pains in my head back, in fact felt pains all over Not getting any better after using all kinds of medicines, I tried PFUNDER'S FEVER AND AGUE MIXTURE, and since gained rapidly in health MARIE WEISER Seventh and C streets, Portland

The different Constitutions. The Constitution of the United States, that master piece of human brain. How is your constitution? If bilious, use Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier the triumph of modern science

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE—TONIC—Bitters sugared sarsaparilla, watered bad whiskies and pills made B. C.—hard as rock, are the cause, the reason, that to-day our people suffer more from liver complaint, poor digestion, etc than any other nation. The idea of giving our working population such trash, and magnifying that trash by calling it ferrated (or iron containing) medicine here, where nature's products are abundant, and very nutritious Eat our Columbia River salmon; that splendid beef derived from cattle feeding on bunch grass those vegetables at once healthy and within the reach of everybody and then laugh at those puerile efforts of ignorant, inconsequent parties trying to force iron into your system All you want—you who constitute the mass of the people is, to get your liver into working order, and there is no other or better remedy than PFUNDER'S OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER., Price, per bottle, one dollar Five dollars for half a dozen.

Your Druggist has it or will get it for you "The Original" Insist upon having it!

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET

The following special report of the real estate market is furnished THE OREGONIAN by Clark & Upton real estate brokers and architects

The number of deeds recorded during the past week is 34 of which 4 were confirmatory and more for nominal considerations. The showing is 30 transactions and the aggregate amount $43 902, as against a total of 38 deeds and $31 957 the preceding week. The transfers of the present week are divided as follows City and suburban 19 East Portland 10 country [illegible]. The relative proportions show a material increase of city sales as compared with East Portland where during the several preceding weeks, the transfer had in number (not amount) nearly equaled those of Portland proper the much lower rates at which properties are held on the east side having induced both investment and speculation in them. Despite the prophecies of croakers the market continues buoyant and lively and the evidences of general confidence well defined. Money for real estate loans is plentiful and easily obtained.

ENGLISH CROPS AND MARKETS

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN

The Mark Lane Express in its review of the English crops and grain trade for the week ending March 30th says

The weather and crop prospects are better than for years past. Only a few weeks more of such weather will secure a rich development of all agricultural produce. The favorable weather has also produced a marked improvement in the condition of English wheat brought to market but nothing could improve the quality which in most cases is wretched. Deliveries have been meager and the total season's crop offered to date is three million quarters less than during the corresponding period of last year. Holders are very firm and an advance of a shilling is recorded at several important country markets. The improvement, however has not been felt at Mark Lane where the quantity of sound native wheat is so small that the attention of millers is directed almost exclusively to foreign in the face of rapidly diminishing stocks and unusually light arrivals. A decidedly improved consumptive demand has been experienced for all varieties of foreign wheat but only at former prices any inclination on the part of holders to raise their pretensions having been strenuously resisted by buyers.

The operations of millers at the beginning of the week were on a somewhat extended scale probably due to the fact that with the arrival of Easter holidays two market days would be lost, and so while carrying out their reserved policy of hand to mouth purchases, freer buying for the time became necessary.

With regard to the future, the position remains unchanged. America clings to her reserves in spite of a lower tendency of prices in New York and little encouragement from this side but it must be admitted that she has hitherto played the waiting game well, and it is not improbable that she may be rewarded ere long with some measure of success. A noteworthy feature of last week's imports was the large proportions in which arrivals from Germany figured. Out of a total supply of 87,878 quarters 21 100 quarters were from German ports, a fact of considerable significance as indicating the willingness of nations who have wheat to spare, and are not au fait at the formation of rings to send their produce to London at present rates.

Sales of English wheat during the past week were 27,197 quarters at 47s 3d per quarter, against 41,231 quarters at 40s 8d per quarter for the corresponding week of last year.

Imports into the United Kingdom during the week ending 20th inst. were 691,328 cwts of wheat and 162,056 cwts of flour.

NEW YORK FREIGHT MARKET.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, April 2.—Dullness in the Cape trade is fully borne out in the following figures of movements for the past month, which are the smallest for many months amounting to only two vessels registering 2673 tons, against five vessels of 5965 tons in the corresponding month of last year, while for the past three months the movement only foots up eleven vessels registering 16 000 tons, against thirteen vessels of 22,010 tons in the corresponding quarter of last year. This decline in movement for the past three months is largely due to the labor agitation in San Francisco and the unsettled state of affairs in consequence and also partly to dilatoriness on the part of manufacturers to deliver the goods for which many of them have had orders since early last fall in season to meet the market via Cape Horn and as a result many of these goods have been diverted to shorter routes, thus depriving shippers of much freight that they ought to have had. However, there seems to be a better feeling in the market consequent upon a decline in raw material for many classes of goods, notably manufactures of iron while at the same time there is a disposition on the part of shippers to give a short route the go-by since an attempt to advance rates has been made. Tonnage on berth or committed for this trade is also less than for any one period for a long time amounting as it does to only thirteen vessels registering in the aggregate to 24,430 tons, and of this three vessels or 5780 tons is committed for full cargoes of coal from Baltimore. Of vessels loading general cargo it is probable that six and perhaps seven will get away in April, while of coal vessels it is unsafe to predict, as the coal market is excited and it is doubtful if cargoes can be delivered to ships in time, contingencies as to deliveries particularly bearing on prices of coal at a time specified and time of delivery having expired, all of which is likely to complicate matters.

Foreign Fruits—Dull, though raisins are steady prunes depressed and lower, old, 6@6½, new 7½@7¾, currants easier, old, 5½ new 6¾@6¼, dried apples scarce and higher western quarters 7c, state sliced, 8@9; quarters, 7½@8¼ evaporated, 12½@14½. figs steady.

Petroleum—Dull; united pipe, 85, crude, 6¾@7½ refined, 7¾ asked.

San Francisco Charters.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO April 2.—With the exception of a small bark chartered to load at Portland, nothing has been done in wheat freights during the past week. With a declining market in England and scarcity of wheat here, shippers have little inducement to take up tonnage, especially as shipments now will arrive just as the new crop from the Atlantic states is reaching market. Tonnage under engagement to load wheat has been reduced to 9866 tons and the vessels comprised in this list are well along several being nearly loaded. Difficulty in procuring sailors has kept a number of vessels in port that otherwise are ready for sea. Two ships have accepted coal charters during the week, which has about satisfied the demand for tonnage in this line. Disengaged vessels in port will probably lay up till the new crop comes on the market, though before that time a few may be taken for coal or lumber.

Hides and Skins—We note another small advance in dry hides kip and calf. Local dealers are paying for consignments. Dry hides, usual selection, 19½@20c; culls one third less; dry kip and calf, 19½@20c.

CELEBRATED

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint

[illegible]

Symptoms of Diseased Liver

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs increases on pressure, sometimes the pain is in the left side the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain accompanied with a dull heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease but cases have occurred where few of them existed yet examination of the body, after death has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER

DR C McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER when taken with Quinine are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements and as a simple purgative they are unequaled

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS

The genuine are never sugar coated. Every box has a red wax seal on the lid with the impression Dr McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C McLANE and FLEMING BROS on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR C McLANE'S LIVER PILLS prepared by Fleming Bros of Pittsburgh Pa the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation

DRY GOODS!

The year 1880 promises from present indications to be the most prosperous season Oregon has experienced since its admission to the family of States. Immigration will pour in railroads will be built bridges erected and localities hitherto inaccessible will be connected with the business centers and distributing depots of the State. This will augment business and require large supplies of merchandise to meet the changed condition of things.

We have anticipated the increased demand that will spring up for all classes of goods and our purchases of

MARTYRS TO RELIGIOUS FAITH

A petition has recently been [illegible] Pope Leo XIII by the [illegible] on of Great Britain [illegible] the martyrs for the [illegible] shed their blood [illegible] VIII, and Queen Elizabeth [illegible] this noble host [illegible] Cardinal Fisher and the [illegible] Thomas More whose [illegible] apostate master [illegible] illustrious Plunkett [illegible] who offered his life [illegible] tioners as an argument [illegible] press their convict[illegible] of the Roman Catholic [illegible] attributable to the [illegible] according to the well known [illegible] "The blood of the martyrs is [illegible] of the church."

Under Henry and Elizabeth the secular power of England was used with [illegible] force and severity to coerce the English into polemical Protestantism. Men went to the stake and the block through fidelity to their heredity faith. The figure of the aged bishop of Rochester Fisher whose last hours the pope could but console with a cardinal's hat, as he goes with [illegible] from imprisonment to death for his religion forsaken well nigh by every one even of his own profession, is a spectacle which must move the sensibilities of every one who reads the accounts of his sufferings. And of Sir Thomas More, the friend of Erasmus the eager student of philosophy and science, the faithful friend and counselor of his royal master in times of national difficulty it is not too much to say that his execution because he would not admit that the king was the head of the church, was the most ungrateful and tyrannous act of Henry's reign. Yet it is curious to notice for what empty words and titles men were content to die. The title of "supreme Head of the Church" had probably only a political and not a theological significance, otherwise we should not find it claimed by Mary, a rigid spiritual subject of the pope and refused by Elizabeth who claimed complete independence of Rome. It appeared however, so serious a matter to Sir Thomas More that in his old age he gave up life the highest official dignities and the love of as noble and intelligent a family as was then to be found in England, rather than lend his sanction for a moment to a claim which he regarded as blasphemous and unchristian. In our own time so little spiritual significance is attached to what is called the royal supremacy that Dr Pusey, Cannon Liddon or the greatest stickler for ecclesiastical independence in England, finds not the slightest difficulty when preaching before either of the universities of Oxford and Cambridge in declaring in the preliminary address known as the "bidding prayer" that the crown is [illegible] in all causes and over all persons, ecclesiastical as well as civil, within these dominions supreme." Nor is it easy to see why Cardinal Fisher and Sir Thomas More could not explain the self conferred title of the "Head of the Church," assumed by Henry VIII, in a way compatible with the language of St Paul, which enjoins obedience to magistrates submission "to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake," and especially "to the king as supreme." It would seem as reasonable for a Chinaman, of large conscientiousness and reason, to lay down his life rather than assent to the emperor's styling himself first cousin to the sun and moon.

Again, however pathetic were the deaths of the Roman Catholic martyrs under Protestant persecution, they were not a whit more so than those of Protestant under Mary. When her Tudor pride had been aroused by the rebellion of Sir Thomas Wyatt and her temper soured by an unhappy marriage, this morose queen spared neither young nor old. Two hundred and eighty persons were burned alive during the last three years of her reign. The history of the human race contains nothing more pathetic than the martyrdom of Ridley and Latimer at Oxford, when the latter, almost as old a man as Fisher and quite as feeble, cried out to his companion as the flames shot up around him "Play the man, Master Ridley! We shall this day light such a candle in England as by God's grace shall never be put out." And when Bonner bishop of London who was by his position the chief arbiter of men's sentence for heresy asked a young lad if he thought that he could bear the fire, the boy held his hand unflinchingly in the flame of a candle, as Cranmer afterward did when he came to the stake. The death of Stephen the first martyr of Christianity, when from the heavenly place, God's glory smote him in the face," was not grander than that of many young men and maidens who gave up their lives for Protestantism crying "Son of God, shine on me," while sunshine fell on them through the riven clouds.

There was no such idea as that of religious toleration on either side in those dark days. The first man in England who dared to proclaim it was Jeremy Taylor, bishop of Down and Connor, and chaplain to King Charles the First, in his work on the "Liberty of Prophesying." He may perhaps have remembered that among his own ancestry was one of the very noblest of the holy army of martyrs Rowland Taylor rector of Hadleigh Suffolk who suffered in his own parish amid the tears of his parishioners, and in the presence of his poor wife and children who had hidden the night before in the porch of St. Botolph's Church beside Aldgate in London to see and speak to him. "God be with thee dear England," and "Farewell, dear wife God will be a father to our children"—such was the burden of their long adieu. And on the way the brave old man in answer to the [illegible] said, "God be praised for I am almost home. I lack not but two more stiles to go over and I am even at my Father's house."

It is clear then that martyrdom is not confined to one party or another, and that, therefore, it proves nothing as to the dogmas for which men die. Christ in his sermon on the mount said, "Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness sake" or as we read it in another gospel "Blessed are those who are persecuted for my name's sake." Now, both these texts apply equally to Roman Catholic and Protestant martyrs. They died for their conscience's sake and therefore for righteousness sake and therefore [illegible] sake, the great master and teacher of righteousness. The [illegible] will be in honor when prophecies shall fail [illegible] then and knowledge vanish away. They have all been [illegible] in the calendar of history by the [illegible] of their fellow men of every creed. If all England were to be converted to-morrow to [illegible] adherence to the papacy it [illegible] grander spiritual heroes than Latimer and Ridley, and, if there were not a [illegible] left in the land Protestant [illegible] produce nobler types of character than Sir Thomas More and Cardinal Fisher.

Large numbers of Chinamen are traveling up Snake river on foot and in small boats bound for the Salmon river diggings.

Deficiency

From the above statement it is evident that the Atlantic states of America must ship for the next nine weeks [illegible] quarters per week so as to meet the consumption leaving a very small stock of [illegible] quarters on the 1st of May next.

The department of agriculture at Washington has published a comparative table on the crops produced in 1878 and 1879 together with the prices obtained by the producers as follows

HARVEST

	1878	1879
Wheat bushels	420 12[illegible]	448 [illegible] 000

Oats bushels	[illegible]	364 [illegible]

Potatoes	78 059 125	78 371 000
Total	$1 483 [illegible]	$1 90[illegible]

This increase of some $41[illegible] 000 000 in a single year is a most encouraging result. But there has also been an increase of other values besides those of the crops noted above. The statistician of the department, who is reported to be gathering material upon which to base a careful estimate of the total increase in certain other values during the year just closed to include the increased price of real estate and mining property expresses the opinion based upon material already gathered that it will not fall below $1 000 000 000.

INSANE ASYLUM REFORM

WASHINGTON COUNTY March 29 1880

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In your enumeration of measures of reform to be borne in mind in nominating candidates for the legislature you omitted the keeping of the insane. This account absorbs about one third of the entire revenue of the state, and the contracter refuses to let it be lessened. More than one half of the inmates of the asylum ought not to be there, and would not be there if the contracter would permit the legislature to enact laws under which the interests of the state shall be represented. Won't you publish the yeas and nays upon the defeated bills relating to this matter before the legislatures of the last dozen years so that if one of the Hawthorne heads comes up now the voters can hit it? In no way can you do the state a greater service.

The lunatic asylum and penitentiary have long been costing the state far greater sums than they should. Since the result of the last year and a half demonstrates that the latter with double the number of convicts costs only one half its former expense when it had but half the present number of inmates some reduction at least ought to be made in the cost of keeping the insane.

SANITY

The Young Grants as Speculators

[New York Special to St Louis Republican]

The committee on admissions of the American mining stock exchange this morning admitted ninety persons to membership out of 400 applicants. Their work was necessarily slow since the board are determined to admit none but men of well known business integrity. Hence they closely investigated the record of each applicant. The members selected to day will be duly installed upon the payment of $100 each as initiation fee and $100 each as annual dues. Among those selected were Jesse R Grant son of the ex president. It is possible that the new mining exchange may be acknowledged by the New York stock exchange and occupy a room in their building but this scheme is yet in embryo. The stock exchange has long had in contemplation the establishment of a mining board and it is understood that negotiations are in progress looking to an arrangement between the new mining board and exchange. Connected with the American mining exchange is a mining trust company a branch of the bank of California, whose aim it is to facilitate transactions in mining stocks. The great drawback against speculation of this kind in this city is the impossibility of using mining stock as collateral for loans. This difficulty is overcome by the establishment of the mining trust company whose offices are in the Barle building Broadway. The company has a capital of $5 000 000 part of which has already been subscribed. Among the stock holders are the presidents of the banks of Nevada and California and Ulysses S Grant Jr.

Lincoln's Views of Fitz John Porter

[Washington Corr of the Boston Traveller]

Your correspondent was here at the time of General Porter's trial and had two conversations with President Lincoln upon the subject and remembers well how considerate and careful he was in reflecting upon and investigating the case before approving the sentence of the court martial. Mr Lincoln told the writer that he did not think General Porter meant to be a traitor or that he had any sympathy with the rebels but he believed his feeling of disappointment and disgust at the removal of McClellan and his bitter personal enmity toward Gen Pope caused him to sacrifice the union cause so far as his action was concerned to gratify bitter feeling and personal malignity, and the practical effect of such indulgence of his feelings was just as disastrous to the union arms as intentional treason would have been and hardly less deserving of as severe punishment. He was determined that Pope should gain no laurels by his aid.

Peter's Pence Going Out of Ireland

From the New York Churchman (Prot Epis)

Now that everybody is sending money to Ireland it does not look well that money in the form of Peter's Pence is being sent from Ireland to Rome. In fact it looks very much like inhumanity and theft. If all the money which has been sent from Ireland to Rome had been invested in land this unhappy people might now be their own landlords. That they are at all drawn upon in the present distress is a shame to religion. Under any circumstances the church never conceived a greater piece of imposition than in exacting the so called Peter's pence. To exact it or even take [illegible] in the present condition of Ireland is to make imposition blush. We trust the money was sent without the pope's knowledge and that on receiving it the holy father will speedily return it.

DECISION IN THE U S CIRCUIT COURT

DEADY J

[illegible]

This suit is brought by the plaintiff a citizen of California against the defendants David Cutting, Orin Cutting and G. J. Trullinger citizens of Oregon to recover the possession of an undivided one fifth of the north half of the donation claim of Charles Cutting and Abigail his wife the same being claims numbered [illegible] and parts of sections [illegible] and [illegible] and sections 1 and [illegible] in 1 S of the same range and situated in the county of Clackamas.

The defendants David and Orin Cutting deny the allegations of the complaint and allege that they are the owners in fee of the premises except 116 acres thereof. The defendant Trullinger makes the like denials and alleges that he is such owner of the said 116 acres.

By the stipulation of the parties the case is submitted to the court upon an agreed state of facts which is to stand and be taken for the special verdict of a jury. From this it appears that Charles Cutting settled upon the claim [illegible] on April 11 1849 and on May 3 1864 duly proved his residence and cultivation thereon as provided in the donation act of September 2, 1850 (9 Stat 497) from June 30 1850 until July 10 1854 but did not then nor thereafter pay the fee required by law for the patent certificate and died thereon intestate in the year 185[illegible] that on February 28 1870 upon the application of the administrator of said Charles Cutting, and upon the payment by him of the necessary fee therefor a patent certificate for said donation was issued to said Abigail the widow of said Charles Cutting and to the heirs at law of the latter—the south half to said Abigail and the north half to said heirs and that afterwards on May 3 1875 a patent was issued by the United States for said donation accordingly that said Charles Cutting left surviving him David Charles and Adelia his children and also Ira the plaintiff herein and Emma the children of his son A J Cutting who died in the year 185[illegible] that on April 4 1860 said Emma was married and that said Ira has duly acquired whatever interest said Emma had in said donation that said Trullinger's title to said 116 acres consists in a conveyance to him of the same by the administrator aforesaid in pursuance of a sale by him upon the authority of an order of the county court of said county to pay the debts of his intestate and that the proceedings in which said order and sale were made were due and regular except that said Emma was not served with any citation or process therein and that the defendants interest in the premises is as alleged in their respective answers unless the said Ira and Emma are entitled to an undivided one fifth thereof under the donation act aforesaid and the facts herein stated as children or heirs at law of said Charles Cutting deceased.

The questions of law which arise upon these facts depend principally for their solution upon the proper construction of that portion of § 4 of the donation act which provides (9 Stat 497) that in all cases where the donees thereunder being married persons "have complied with the provisions of this act so as to entitle them to the grant as above provided whether under the late provisional government of Oregon or since and either shall have died before patent issues the survivor and children or heirs of the deceased shall be entitled to the share or interest of the deceased in equal proportions except where the deceased shall otherwise dispose of it by testament duly and properly executed according to the laws of Oregon."

The same section also contains a proviso declaring "void" "all future contracts * * for the sale of the land to which any person 'may be entitled under this act before he or they have received a patent therefor.' But this proviso was repealed by § 2 of the act of July 17 1855 (10 Stat 306) with the following qualification "Provided that no sale shall be deemed valid unless the vendor shall have resided four years upon the land."

In Barney v Dolph 7 Otto, 652 Mr Chief Justice Waite speaking for the supreme court held that this repeal of the prohibition to sell "was, under the circumstances equivalent to an express grant of power to sell" after "the right to a patent had been fully secured" and that such repeal did by a necessary implication "in cases where sales were made repeal the above provision in § 4 giving the interest of the settler in the donation in case of his death before patent to his devisee or wife and children or heirs saying— Any provision in the act transferring the title of the settler in case of his death before receiving the patent to his child heir or devisee is palpably inconsistent with an unlimited power to sell and convey the land. The two cannot stand together and consequently the power of sale, which was the latest enactment must prevail."

This construction of the act however leaves the interest of the settler who dies without a patent and without a sale to go or pass as originally provided—to his wife and children or heirs or devisee as the case may be.

In Hall v Russell decided at the present term of the supreme court Mr Chief Justice Waite speaking for the court held that a settler upon the public lands under the donation act prior to the completion of the four years residence and cultivation required by the act had only a possessory right thereto that is—

A present right to occupy and maintain possession so as to acquire a complete right to the soil and that such settler was not qualified to take as a grantee under the act until he had completed his four years of continued residence and cultivation and performed such other acts in the meantime as the statute required in order to protect his claim and keep it alive—such as giving notice of the [illegible] claimed and proving the commencement of the settlement and cultivation [illegible] and that therefore a settler dying before the completion of such residence and cultivation [illegible] land to dispose of [illegible] will [illegible] that under § 8 of the act his possessory right went to his heirs who might make [illegible] settlement and death of their [illegible] took the land not from their ancestor but as the grantees and donees of the United States.

Under these decisions as well as others of this court it is clear that the interest of Charles Cutting in this donation whatever it was terminated with his life and that the land was not thereafter liable for his debts or subject to sale by his administrator but the [illegible] was the absolute property of his wife and children as the [illegible] grantees of the United States [illegible] Fields v Squires 1 Deady 88 Lamb v Starr [illegible]

The power of sale or devise which the settler had upon the completion of his residence and cultivation was [illegible] exercised and therefore the survivor and children became entitled to the premises as though [illegible] had ever existed.

[illegible] mortgage which [illegible] of the deceased [illegible] of an outright sale. But in the case of a settler dying without a patent and leaving debts not secured [illegible] interest in the donation [illegible] the property as against the survivor and children [illegible] the administrator [illegible]

The [illegible] a mistake gave the [illegible] no interest in the premises.

The next [illegible] to be considered is can or ought the word children as used in this connection be construed to include grandchildren. It is admitted that ordinarily and properly the former term does not include the latter but it has been construed in the case of wills where it appears [illegible]

[illegible]

But [illegible] the court [illegible] In the act [illegible] several acts [illegible] [illegible] of the donee [illegible] the living [illegible] the grandchildren [illegible] surviving them [illegible] at the death of the [illegible]

[illegible] Justice Miller says—"Should the word children as used in these statutes be more restricted than when used in a will? In the construction of wills unless there is something to control a different meaning the word children is often held to mean grandchildren. There is no argument that [illegible] from human sympathy to exclude grandchildren from the bounty whether we look to the donors or the [illegible] [illegible] as far as they may—a class of men [illegible] in the military service [illegible] and the dangers [illegible] would not seem to [illegible] national gratitude [illegible] grandchildren [illegible] At the argument that the [illegible] is a gratuity [illegible] grandchildren as to children."

[illegible] On a deliberate consideration of the above statutes we have come to the conclusion that the word children in the acts embrace the grandchildren of the deceased [illegible] whether their parents died before or after his decease. And we think they are entitled per stirpes to a distributive share of the deceased parent.

This case is decidedly in point. The analogy between it and the case at bar is complete and instructive. The grant proffered by the donation act—particularly the fourth section thereof—was a bounty to the parents in consideration of the timely and important services rendered by them in the occupation and settlement of the country. And in case of the death of either of them without having received a patent for the donation the benign policy of the act was to secure this bounty first to the immediate family of the deceased—his widow and children and for lack of the latter to her and his heirs generally.

The children of the deceased child of Charles Cutting are certainly within the equity of the statute—more so even than were the grandchildren of the deceased pensioner. And there is nothing in the circumstances of the case or the reason of the provision which should exclude them as the representatives of their parent from participating in the bounty of the government.

Owing to his comparative age and ability the deceased child may have largely shared with his father the journeyings hardships and labor which were involved in obtaining this donation and in this respect may have been the most deserving of the family.

This is a beneficial statute—a measure of general utility and justice—particularly the clause under consideration which provides for the disposition of the donation in case the settler dies before he has obtained a patent and should therefore have a liberal and benign interpretation. Smith's Com 490. Such has been the spirit in which the act has been construed by the courts. Indeed in Silver v Ladd 7 Wall 24 the supreme court held that a single woman was included in the description of persons capable of receiving a donation under the fourth section. In delivering the opinion of the court Mr Justice Miller characterizes the act as "one of the most benevolent statutes of the government" and particularly in speaking of the construction of this fourth section says: "Anything therefore which savors of narrowness or illiberality in defining the beneficiaries among those residing in the territory in those early days and partaking of the hardships which the [illegible] was intended to reward who shall be entitled to its benefits is at variance with the manifest purpose of congress."

And according to a celebrated collector of the curious and interesting events and customs of past ages this question was the subject of a judicial combat in the tenth century when the champion in behalf of the rights of the grandchildren proving victorious, it was established by a perpetual decree that they should thenceforth share in the inheritance together with their uncles.—D Israeli's Curiosities of Literature vol 1 p 233.

It appears then that both upon reason and authority ancient and modern that the word children as used in the clause under consideration was intended by congress to include all the children of the deceased settler—the living ones actually and personally and the deceased ones by their legal representatives and per stirpes. This being so the plaintiff as the representative of A J Cutting a child of the deceased settler and the grantee of his sister Emma Cutting, is entitled to an undivided one fifth of the north half of the donation.

But upon the face of the patent and the conveyance from his sister it appears that the plaintiff is so entitled without reference to the question whether he and his would be included in a grant to the children of Charles Cutting deceased.

The patent grants the premises to the heirs at law of Charles Cutting and ignores the right of the survivor (Abigail Cutting) altogether. In this respect it may be considered void upon its face as it discloses the fact that there was a survivor to whom the act gave an equal part in the premises with an heir. Davenport v Lamb 13 Wall 428 Lamb v Starr 1 Deady 78.

The heirs whoever they may be, can only take in default of children. The act substitutes them for children in case there are none of the latter. Lamb v Starr supra 1 Red on Wills 466-7.

But whether the patent should issue to the children or heirs involved a question of fact to be determined by the land department before it was issued. If the evidence showed that the deceased settler left no children then the patent should have been issued to his heirs but not otherwise. The patent having been issued to the heirs the presumption is that there were no children. And although it appears from the agreed case that such is not the fact yet this cannot affect the patent which may not be avoided at law for matter dehors the record. Sharp v Stephens (C C Dis Or Aug 25 1879) and cases there cited. In this case it was held that a patent could not be contradicted at law by showing that the wrong person was named therein as the wife of the settler and grantee of one half of the donation.

Who are the heirs of Charles Cutting is a matter to be determined solely by the local law—the law of Oregon. As was said by this court in Lamb v Starr supra the donation act does not prescribe who shall be considered the heirs of a deceased settler any more than it prescribes who shall be considered the heirs of a settler. Both these are left to the local law—the law of Oregon. Who would be entitled to claim as heir of the deceased would in all cases depend upon the law of Oregon at the time of the death but persons claiming [illegible] are to be [illegible] those [illegible] by the local law.

By the law [illegible] of Charles Cutting his children including the [illegible] right of representation [illegible] Or Laws p [illegible] entitled [illegible] north half of the donation gives the plaintiff and his sister as the [illegible] of A J Cutting [illegible] equal interest therein with the surviving children of the deceased settler. And the patent [illegible] giving the premises to the heirs without including the surviving widow the [illegible] is [illegible] to an undivided one fourth [illegible] his omission of the widow from the grant in this respect is shown upon the face of the patent to be erroneous [illegible]

And [illegible] the matter may have [illegible] whether [illegible] included in the word children.

But the [illegible] turned mainly upon this [illegible] the defendants [illegible]

As it is [illegible] determined that the grant to the children of the deceased settler [illegible] of the [illegible] his deceased son A J [illegible] the patent is practically the [illegible] children as well as [illegible] should have [illegible] to the heirs [illegible] and merits, [illegible] for the plaintiff [illegible]

ENGLISH CROPS AND MARKETS

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN

The Mark Lane Express in its review of the English crops and grain trade for the week ending March 30th says

The weather and crop prospects are better than for years past Only a few weeks more of such weather will secure a rich development of all agricultural produce The favorable weather has also produced a marked improvement in the condition of English wheat brought to market but nothing could improve the quality which in most cases is wretched Deliveries have been meager and the total season's crop offered to date is three million quarters less than during the corresponding period of last year Holders are very firm and an advance of a shilling is recorded at several important country markets The improvement however has not been felt at Mark Lane where the quantity of sound native wheat is so small that the attention of millers is directed almost exclusively to foreign in the face of rapidly diminishing stocks and unusually light arrivals A decidedly improved consumptive demand has been experienced for all varieties of foreign wheat but only at former prices any inclination on the part of holders to raise their pretensions having been strenuously resisted by buyers.

The operations of millers at the beginning of the week were on a somewhat extended scale probably due to the fact that with the arrival of Easter holidays two market days would be lost, and so while carrying out their reserved policy of hand to mouth purchases freer buying for the time became necessary

With regard to the future the position remains unchanged America clings to her reserves in spite of a lower tendency of prices in New York and little encouragement from this side but it must be admitted that she has hitherto played the waiting game well, and it is not improbable that she may be rewarded ere long with some measure of success A noteworthy feature of last week's imports was the large proportions in which arrivals from Germany figured. Out of a total supply of 37,678 quarters 21 100 quarters were from German ports, a fact of considerable significance as indicating the willingness of nations who have wheat to spare, and are not au fait at the formation of rings to send their produce to London at present rates

Sales of English wheat during the past week were 27,197 quarters at 47s 3d per quarter, against 42,231 quarters at 46s 8d per quarter for the corresponding week of last year

Imports into the United Kingdom during the week ending 20th inst were 691,328 cwts of wheat and 162 066 cwts of flour

NEW YORK FREIGHT MARKET.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

NEW YORK, April 2—Dullness in the Cape trade is fully borne out in the following figures of movements for the past month, which are the smallest for many months amounting to only two vessels, registering 2673 tons, against five vessels of 8955 tons in the corresponding month of last year, while for the past three months the movement only foots up eleven vessels registering 10 000 tons, against thirteen vessels of 21,010 tons in the corresponding quarter of last year This decline in movement for the past three months is largely due to the labor agitation in San Francisco and the unsettled state of affairs in consequence and also partly to dilatoriness on the part of manufacturers to deliver the goods for which many of them have had orders since early last fall in season to meet the market via Cape Horn and as a result many of these goods have been diverted to shorter routes, thus depriving shippers of much freight that they ought to have had However there seems to be a better feeling in the market consequent upon a decline in raw material for many classes of goods, notably manufactures of iron while at the same time there is a disposition on the part of shippers to give a short route the go-by since an attempt to advance rates has been made Tonnage on berth or committed for this trade is also less than for any one period for a long time amounting as it does to only thirteen vessels registering in the aggregate to 24 480 tons and of this three vessels or 5766 tons is committed for full cargoes of coal from Baltimore. Of vessels loading general cargo it is probable that six and perhaps seven will get away in April while of coal vessels it is unsafe to predict, as the coal market is excited and it is doubtful if cargoes can be delivered to ships in time, contingencies as to deliveries particularly bearing on prices of coal at a time specified and time of delivery having expired, all of which is likely to complicate matters.

Foreign Fruits—Dull though raisins are steady prunes depressed and lower old, 6@6½, new 7½@7¾. currants easier old, 5½ new 6¼@6½ dried apples scarce and higher western quarters, 7a8, state sliced 8@9 quarters, 7½@8¼ evaporated, 12½@14½ figs steady

Petroleum—Dull, united pipe, 85, crude, 6⅜@7½ refined, 7⅝ asked.

San Francisco Charters.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

SAN FRANCISCO April 2—With the exception of a small bark chartered to load at Portland, nothing has been done in wheat freights during the past week With a declining market in England and scarcity of wheat here shippers have little inducement to take up tonnage, especially as shipments now will arrive just as the new crop from the Atlantic states is reaching market Tonnage under engagement to load wheat has been reduced to 9866 tons and the vessels comprised in this list are well along several being nearly loaded Difficulty in procuring sailors has kept a number of vessels in port that otherwise are ready for sea Two ships have accepted coal charters during the week which has about satisfied the demand for tonnage in this line. Disengaged vessels in port will probably lay up till the new crop comes on the market, though before that time a few may be taken for coal or lumber

Hides and Skins—We note another small advance in dry hides kip and calf Local dealers are paying for consignments Dry hides usual selection 19½@20c culls one third less, dry kip and calf 19½@20c.

MY INDIAN HERO

CHAPTER I

[illegible] knows [illegible] people [illegible] knows the real rights and wrongs of the case.

What Did I ever [illegible] single decent nigger in my life [illegible] many a blackone, too But when a nation has been trampled on, wronged, oppressed and defrauded for centuries, do you suppose there are no brave men who dream of freedom You think I'm partial do you Not a bit of it I hate the niggers as a set But mind no country is all Bayards or Admirable Crichtons

Don't believe me, eh Ah you young scamps it's just the way now-a-days By gad, sir, when I was a boy, we used to listen to my grandfather's yarns, a collection of lies from first to last, and take it all as Gospel truth The impudence of this generation passeth belief

So you say you don't believe there ever was a nigger better than the Nana, who ought to have been squashed in oil or hanged. Ay, but there was Would you like to hear about him Yes?

Well then this hero of mine was a simple shikaree and went with me everywhere like a dog I saved his life one day when we were out hunting and he never forgot it He had the spare gun and I gave him strict orders on no account to fire it, as I was following up some markores up in the Himalayas, and the beasts are so shy that there is no chance of getting a shot for weeks together Well, he was about twenty yards behind me at the time, and I was moving quietly along when I heard a crackling in the bushes. I turned round and there was a huge panther, crouching a few yards from Proboo, who had dropped the gun and drawn his knife

'The idiot'" I muttered to myself, for I knew he was a dead shot, and a panther at close quarters was no joke I can tell you

I raised my gun to fire but a motion from the Indian stopped me Before I could recover my surprise the brute had sprung, and the chance was over

"I saw the two forms struggling, and could not shoot for fear of hitting the man

"It was a moment's work to drag out my long hunting dagger, and, dashing forward almost simultaneously with the beast, I raised the weapon to strike

"Proboo had leaped aside, but the panther's paw struck him on the shoulder and felled him The beast now lay on him, growling, but not tearing him

'The Indian's face was calm and quiet He simply motioned with his hand I understood him, and absolutely resting on the brute, I stabbed deeply into his heart It rolled over, frantically biting the dust, and my shikaree cooly rose, his shoulder covered with blood, and observed its death struggles

"'Why didn't you fire?' I asked, looking at him with unfeigned surprise

"'Not spoil sahib's sport' he replied 'All this noon we seek de markore, and now we frighten him forever if we shoot so near'

"Then I understood the whole action, and for intrepid bravery, I have seldom met his equal

"Well, what do you think of it now? That was a year or more before the breaking out of the mutiny in March, '57 but a few days after my Cashmere expedition I again had to witness another trait in the character of my Indian friend

"There was a fellow in 'Ours' called James Netley, as big a cad as ever I saw and yet I don't know that I am right in calling him so, for he was a regular 'blue blood' in point of birth, but a brute in every other way He was about six feet high—made like a Grecian model—not an ounce of extra fat on him, but with a face that reminded one more of a gladiator or a bruiser than anything else He was a capital jockey, and, indeed on his horse looked perfection once off it, however he was nothing more than the biggest blackguard that ever stepped He would often condescend to smash into a native boxer and there were even darker tales told about him Anyhow he was rich and that covered a multitude of sins and free with his money too I've heard fellows declare he was the best shot in the army and could snuff a candle at a tremendous distance I will say this for him that till I met James Netley I never found a man that could touch me with a rifle Add to all these pleasant characteristics of his that of a debauchee and you have him to the life

'It used to be said that he had been banked from another regiment because he had given another man's name for his own when taken up in a drunken row Old Col Delauncy, who commanded the —th meeting him next day, said Captain Netley I have no doubt your friends would be very pleased to see you in some other regiment'

So he left and joined 'Ours'

He never did himself any harm by his messes I never saw him drunk in my life, though he took a delight in making others so With a constitution of iron he never abused it too far and his excesses were always atoned for by long periods of strict training I think in a word he was the cleverest blackguard I ever met with in my life

It was this man who in an evil hour cast his eyes on Seta, my poor shikaree's wife

Taking advantage of the husband's absence with me on our hunting excursion to the north he decoyed her [illegible] house from her home in the woods and [illegible] a month cast her out [illegible] Poor Seta returned to her cot [illegible] Proboo had not yet come back [illegible] out and they found her drowned [illegible] close by Didn't it create a stir [illegible] [illegible] Oh no it was far too common an occurrence to do that but then [illegible] as I heard it observed those niggers have no feelings—they don't mind it

We returned and that very night as I was sitting in my room sipping some sherbet my shikaree entered I had always given him free entrance into my chambers for often he would be out for nights and then come rushing in with the news of some tiger tracked or wild beast run to earth

I was much surprised to see the strange look on his face He addressed me in Hindostani

Master he said in a tone I shall not soon forget Seta is gone They have destroyed her

What [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] and left her [illegible]

He [illegible] was [illegible]

He seemed [illegible] at [illegible] above us [illegible]

[illegible] He grasped and [illegible] then

[illegible] given me his hand [illegible] rank with [illegible]

He [illegible] the room [illegible] kept thinking [illegible]

[illegible] James Netley and he [illegible]

W[illegible] Marston he said and how did you [illegible] of his wife during his absence [illegible] pretty girl too

I [illegible] him sternly for a moment and then replied

Netley you are the biggest blackguard in the service and disgrace your regiment and [illegible]

With these words I rose and left the table

CHAPTER II

Proboo was not [illegible] from that time forth and slowly among all the stirring events of that year I began to forget all about my Indian [illegible]

Accounts came from different parts of the country telling how in some places the sepoys had been [illegible] in others how they revolted with hideous massacres filled us with dread and horror Around our station as yet there had been no disturbances but in few [illegible] small clouds no larger than a man's hand on the horizon and the storm was coming

One day an English nurse with the colonel's baby was found in the same stream where poor Seta had been drowned but the most searching investigation produced nothing

A few miles from us a letter carrier was waylaid on the road rifled of his dispatches and found dead marked with a huge cross on his chest A knife had been drawn from shoulder to shoulder and from throat to hip

A private servant was shot in the woods not many hundred yards from the barracks he was marked in the same way as the carrier His coat had been torn open to cut the dread sign on his breast

There was a fearful panic among the white people everything was in a state of defense but now no news came Carrier after carrier was sent out but all were found marked with the terrible cross lying near the station They had many of them, been carried there in the night and left as warnings we thought

At length one reached the station He stated that as he was lurking in the wood his dispatch rolled in a quill and thrust into his ear he suddenly found himself in a glade, and perceived the barrels of over fifty guns leveled at him

'He at once stopped terrified, and a man advanced from the thicket carrying two swords in his hands and demanded his papers

"He plucked up courage to say he had none whereupon the stranger smiled and beckoning with his hand, the guns were drawn in and all the men disappeared

"He then cast one of the swords on to the grass and telling the other to take it up, threw himself into an attitude of defense The poor man did so but in a moment, after a few passes received a sharp blow on the head that stunned him When again conscious, his dispatch was gone and he felt the excruciating pain of a wound on his breast He, too, was marked with the cross

'Such was his tale and now all the cantonment gave themselves up to dispair Some were for marching at once to P— others were for staying where they were lest they should be cut to pieces in the woods and the women and children massacred

"A month passed in this terrible suspense and at length a faithful black brought the news that Lucknow was relieved, and that the mutiny was really over He had escaped the bands that were surrounding the station and declared that he could guide a small body of men, by night to where this stranger was encamped with a few of his followers—the man who had besieged us all the time, and whom we had begun to call the Cross Man

The colonel, as gallant an officer as ever stepped madly longing to avenge his murdered child, eagerly embraced the proposal A body of volunteers came forward, twenty in all, and among them besides the colonel were James Netley and myself

'No sooner was it dark than we set off About two or three miles from the station there was a range of hills one of which, the Grand Dagh was of great height Here the mutineers were encamped The forest was thick and dense, and it was with difficulty we proceeded There was only room to walk two abreast and the colonel insisted on leading He placed Netley in the middle, and I brought up the rear—the place of danger. Should any idea of the expedition come to the desperadoes, we made no doubt they would attempt to cut us off

The wood above was thick as thatch, and it was only occasionally that we caught a glimpse of the moon The colonel and the spy marched first, and I could see the row of shining bayonets moving on before me in a thin line like a serpent

'Suddenly, as we turned a corner, we came across a log, right in our path and the word was at once passed down to be careful I was a few yards behind the last man and as he wheeled round it, for a moment I was out of sight At that minute I felt a hand laid on my shoulder I leaped around and raised my revolver but the sight of Proboo standing in the moonlight that poured through a rift so startled me that I could not speak

'He placed his finger on his lips and I was seized from behind, tied gagged, and blindfolded and then hurried off

At length they ceased dragging me along and the scarf was removed I was in a small glade and along with Proboo

He bent down and spoke to me in Hindostani

They are doomed he said simply for he was a young them I could only save the master thus he continued, but he must come with me and see the end Will he swear ne ther to speak nor make any sign to them?"

I shook my head Proboo smiled then again beckoning with his hand I was blindfolded and carried away

At length we stopped and I was laid down and the scarf removed It was on the mountain side in a deep ravine Above us towered the Grand Dagh behind us the Lesser Dagh A small fissure in the rock to the left was the only entrance—it was a cul de sac

An Indian was seated by me and on my trying to speak he first of all demanded in Hindostani if I would promise not to shout I nodded and he undid the gag

Why am I brought here?" I asked

He smiled again and then gently pulling me to the edge of the platform lifted me up to a trellis work of green plants and showed a small dark cave I looked over and there below I saw what appeared to be a mass of silver glancing As my eyes became accustomed to the light I felt it was a crowd of cobras twining in and out I turned aside with horror

The Indian seized a stone and cast it in Thereon arose [illegible] a fearful hissing that I cried out in terror and he dragged me back [illegible]

What [illegible] I asked with the sweat streaming from my face

He [illegible] and then once more [illegible] I had no time to think much on this horrible sight [illegible] suddenly the sharp click of the rifles told me that the strife had begun I prayed for the success of the gallant soldiers taken unawares

It did not last long and while I was torn with fear as to its issue a light evidently cast by torches appeared and I saw ten or twelve white robed figures [illegible] something up the mountain side [illegible] at their head [illegible] of them At length they [illegible] and I saw them [illegible] Netley A faint [illegible] what was [illegible]

At that moment the [illegible] was drawn [illegible] and I was [illegible] against the rock [illegible] at length [illegible] I knew [illegible]

Netley's [illegible] was [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] they [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Netley leaped [illegible] placed his back against [illegible]

He advanced a step toward the other and then spoke as follows

Sahib Netley has seen the snakes [illegible] Let him know that the [illegible] lets blood fall [illegible] shall [illegible] their food [illegible] has spoken

The soldier stood like a statue but the expression of his face changed But ever seemed as a tiger driven to bay with no chance of life now the light of hope darted into his eyes

He replied

So be it I give my word the first that loses blood shall be their food

Never have I seen a sight more fearful than that of those two men as they advanced against each other

A silence as of death reigned around Their eyes met and the hatred of a [illegible] seemed in their look The one tall fair as perfect as a Grecian hero the other small dark wiry—an Indian

The fight was not long [illegible] neither seemed to breathe [illegible] coming, the Englishman he leaped at [illegible] like a mad cat The shikaree stepped back and seizing the uplifted hand that held the knife wrenched it, and Netley fell on one knee Quick as lightning the Indian struck with his dagger the unprotected arm The blood gushed out in a dark stream and then he drew back smiling triumphantly like a fiend

The Englishman sprang up at once and forgetting his word wild with fury hatred and fear rushed on Proboo shouting as he brandished his knife Die thou dog die.

But the other was too quick for him At a sign of his hand his followers threw themselves on Netley and in a moment he was bound on the rock

Like that of the poor Scotch earl led to death, his face was dreary A look of awful terror came into his eyes and then it faded away

With a mighty effort he calmed his face and I heard him mutter as he lay writhing there They shall see how a soldier can die

Silently they dragged him to the edge and for one moment he hung there motionless I saw his face ghastly white his eyes haggard and bloodshot and his beautiful white teeth stained with the gore that flowed from the lip he gnawed in his agony Then Proboo spurned him with his foot and he fell forward with a dull thud and the trellis work of leaves closed like a door

' Then there arose straightway a horrible noise We could see nothing but seemed to hear the snakes rending him (though we knew they did not as he lay bound Then there came a fearful groan, and all began to swim around me and I knew no more

When I saw the world again I was free and far from that place The mutiny was quelled but I had only just recovered from a severe attack of brain fever I was found lying in the forest among the dead soldiers they said—the only survivor Anxious at their non appearance in the morning a detachment was sent out and saw the brave volunteers shot down in their ranks to a man the colonel at their head, still grasping his sword They buried them all, but could not discover James Netley, I never told them where they might have found him And Proboo? You want to know what became of him? As he stood on the platform of the Grand Dagh, by the Devil's Hole, like an avenging angel, was the last time I saw 'My Indian hero '

BURR'S TREASON

An Incident in the Family History of Our New Minister to Mexico

A singular incident in the family history of Judge Philip H Morgan, the new minister to Mexico, is spoken of as giving a peculiar appropriateness to his appointment and likely to secure him a warm welcome in Mexico Judge Morgan's great-grandfather was a colonel in the revolutionary war, a personal friend of Gen Washington and well acquainted with Aaron Burr After the close of the war Col Morgan settled on a large estate called Morganza in western Pennsylvania, and here Burr paid him a visit with the hope as the event proved, to induce Col Morgan's two sons to join him in his contemplated expedition against Mexico and design to establish a southwestern empire But he literally reckoned without his host who became so indignant with Burr that the ex vice president did not think it wise to disclose his plans in full, but was rash enough to say at the dinner table one day when warmed with wine that with 500 men the city of New York could be taken, and with 200 congress could be driven into the river

The dinner table was thrown into disorder by this speech but Col Morgan's youngest son afterwards Gen John Morgan replied hotly

By G—d, sir with that force you cannot take our little town of Canonsburg, which joined his father's land Burr coolly replied

'Confine yourself to this side of the mountain if you please and I'll not contradict you" Burr then left the table and next morning left the house before breakfast and proceeded on his visit to Blennerhassett Island in the Ohio Colonel Morgan had, however gathered enough of Burr's scheme to enable him to warn President Jefferson On the trial of Burr at Richmond for treason and misdemeanor in preparing the means of a military expedition against Mexico Col Morgan was one of the witnesses and testified to the facts which are set down in the official report of the trial

General John Morgan who made so patriotic a reply to Burr was the grandfather of the new Mexican minister He died at Morganza in 1817 Judge Morgan's father studied law in Washington Penn, and they removed to Baton Rouge in 1822 where he died in 1862 It is curious and interesting that after 70 years the grandson of the young man who would not allow Burr to talk treason or propose filibustering at his father's table is sent to the country against which Burr was then scheming

MEXICAN PASTIMES

GEN GRANT AT A 'BULL TAILING'—THE [illegible] OF THE SPORT

(Orizaba (Mex) Letter to New York Tribune

Now came something new bull tailing, a sport peculiar to Mexico and one that is a compromise with the early more barbarous bull fight On the plateau where the regiment had stood in line had gathered perhaps 100 horsemen Then forty bulls were driven up and corralled in a corner made by a stone wall that ran along two sides of the place There was a great deal of ordering at [illegible] [illegible] of various kinds to be gone through with [illegible] were [illegible] swings in fact everything possible was done to gratify the delight of the Mexicans [illegible] ing off his equestrian accomplishments At last all was ready although [illegible] had been done for an hour except to [illegible] madly about

Two or three young fellows rode into the herd and cut off a bull from his companions He was as wild as a deer [illegible] like the wind Then there was a [illegible] with thundering of horses [illegible] and snapping of [illegible] ers were up with [illegible] the flying animal [illegible] causing him to [illegible] mark [illegible] ers were [illegible] and after several attempts one of them got hold of the [illegible]

[illegible] silver-spangled leg was [illegible] the tail of the bull and as the [illegible] in the saddle and [illegible] the horse's flank he [illegible] with a twinkling and went [illegible] in the grass

[illegible] His leg was broken [illegible] but charged [illegible] Once in the mele [illegible]

[illegible] was [illegible] worth all that [illegible] and it [illegible] grass [illegible] was an exciting scene but before Grant [illegible] with the broken leg and [illegible] by the soldiers [illegible] thinking [illegible] he asked the [illegible] and the [illegible] I never saw [illegible] before [illegible] he remarked [illegible]

THE STRONG MAN TALK

Its Utter Stupidity and Folly—How the Strong Man Nearly Destroyed his Party

[illegible] Cincinnati Gazette

Senator [illegible] meeting [illegible] [illegible]

This remarkable turn raised a smile and dispatched the effect of the argument But the things which are generally alleged as reasons for bringing in Gen Grant are so remarkable that people want to know how he [illegible] them How is he to insure a proper discrimination between virtue and vice How is the proper punishment upon disloyalty How hold rebellion in check

[illegible] revival [illegible] rebellion has had [illegible] in control of that [illegible] have all [illegible] constitutional powers [illegible] who shall be president The only way [illegible] to law to keep them in check is to elect a republican majority to congress But the transfer of congress to the confederate democracy took place under Grant When he came in the republicans had two thirds of the house and senate At the close of his second term the confederates had 168 representatives the republicans only 105 The senate was nearly balanced and the elections had already taken place in the states which secured a democratic majority in that body If the confederates had this revival under Grant's administration how is his restoration going to put them down?

The revival of the confederate democracy and the decline of the republican party when Gen Grant was in the White House, were so great that the republicans narrowly escaped defeat in the election of president and did not escape a disputed election and the danger of civil war therefrom The election of president by a hard run was made a barren success by a confederate majority in congress If Gen Grant had achieved his then desired for renomination, could he have restored to congress the republican majority which had sunk during his term? Could he himself have restored the republican party from a minority of more than 300,000 to which it had sunk in the popular vote during his second term? Could he make sure his election and the return of a republican majority to congress if he were now nominated?

We are laboring for the election of a republican president and congress and therefore we ask the evidence that the man under whose administration the republicans lost congress and almost lost the executive, can assure us these

All this talk if it has any meaning, means that Gen Grant would not observe any limitations of law, but would assume a military dictatorship We do not suppose that the talkers of the need of the strong man mean this but their talk can have no other rational meaning But the legislative branch governs the country, and in the last resort is supreme Without the support of that, Grant or any other man would be like Samson when his hair was short Neither Grant nor any other man can do anything in the presidency 'to hold rebellion in check," save in pursuance of law The laws of a free country are made in jealousy of power The man who best understands the constitutional powers of the executive will be the best man to administer them

The election of president is to be settled according to the forms of law The candidate is not going to call for the veterans of the Union army to muster and be ready to seat him in case of a dispute of his election The country is not secure against fraudulent practices by congress to revise the election of president but it is not going to call out the veteran volunteer army to intimidate congress The only practicable way to escape such calamity and to intimidate the confederate congress is to elect a republican president by a clear majority and a republican congress to back him A congress will not be swift to seat a confederate who was not elected president when a republican congress stands ready to step into its shoes

This strong man talk has already put a sword into the hand of the confederates, it would be wiser to drop it now, and to place the argument for the renomination of Gen Grant on practical conditions The constitution and the laws made in pursuance thereof are to continue the supreme law of the land and are to bind president and people. He is the best man for president who will best preserve and execute the constitutional powers That is the only strong man that the republic can bear

PERPETUAL MOTION AGAIN

ALBANY March [illegible]1, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I noticed in the last OREGONIAN a challenge thrown down by a believer in perpetual motion to any one to prove the impossibility of such a machine The best proof that I can give is that such a machine is impossible unless certain immutable laws of matter are changed —such as gravity friction, the pressure of the atmosphere, etc Now, I do not claim to be a philosopher or anything of the kind but I do claim to have common sense enough to see the uselessness of any attempt to solve what has been attempted without avail by the greatest minds of the world for over 3000 years Archimedes Aristotle and Newton tried it I would be glad to know what that wonderful theorem is which our philosopher has Will he not state it for the benefit of science If he is correct our text books in philosophy teach a falsehood I am afraid his theorem will not bear rough handling I have thought perhaps he has been under the care of Dr Hawthorne and escaped But I noticed sometime ago some accounts from the eastern states of this lunacy and I suppose, like the 15 puzzle it acts epidemically Without any more joking, I really desire to know the principle by which Mr Logic intends to solve the long sought but still unsolved problem of perpetual motion

GANOF

Harbor work at Coos Bay is in rapid progress Several cribs have already been finished Two large scows, for the transportation of rock have also been completed and towed up Coos river where they are to be loaded There will be six of the cribs, about [illegible] feet wide by 50 long each making in all a wall about 300 feet long These cribs are in [illegible] and it would be almost impossible for them to be made stronger the timbers [illegible] into each other and fastened [illegible] the sides and ends by iron bars [illegible] inches square and three feet in length Each crib is divided into four compartments the cross timbers being dove tailed into those at the [illegible] and securely fastened in the center by the aid of [illegible] bars The scows are also very substantially constructed and will carry about [illegible] tons each

A Serious Charge.

From the Chicago Times

A Mississippian testified at Washington We[illegible] that one of the causes of the negro exodus was the insecurity of colored women from immoral importunities from white men This he said was frequently complained of by the colored people especially husbands and fathers
